

The Natural World

Volume I of JJ University 101

James Johnson

Copyright © 2026 James Johnson. All rights reserved.
Published by JJ University. JJUniversity.com

No part of this publication may be reproduced, distributed, or transmitted without prior written permission, except for brief quotations and other uses permitted by law.

JJ University books use a human-directed process that can include AI-assisted research and early drafting. James Johnson selects the subjects, directs the structure and scope, and substantially revises and edits the work.

First JJ University print proof, 2026. Not for sale.

The following notes apply where relevant to portions of this volume.

Errors, updates, and corrections. JJ University is a fast-moving, evolving publishing project. Factual, chronological, attribution, interpretive, or typographical errors may remain, and information can become outdated. Documented corrections may be submitted at JJUniversity.com/contact and incorporated in later editions.

Educational scope. This volume is for general education and commentary. It is not individualized instruction or professional advice.

Independence and identification. JJ University and James Johnson are independent and are not affiliated with, authorized by, endorsed by, or speaking for any person or entity discussed. Names and trademarks identify subjects of commentary and remain with their owners.

Interpretation. Accounts of history, religion, philosophy, ethics, politics, and public institutions are the author's synthesis and interpretation. Sources, participants, scholars, and readers may reasonably disagree about evidence, terminology, emphasis, and conclusions.

Science and technical safety. Scientific and technical descriptions are explanations, not operating instructions. Do not rely on this volume for hazardous, laboratory, electrical, engineering, or health-related activity.

Satire and dramatization. Some passages may use satire, parody, fictionalization, composite scenes, or dramatized dialogue. Unless identified as a quotation, dialogue and interior thoughts are not verbatim statements by real people.